Sunday Morning Worship

If God Rests, So Should We | 3 August 2025

This week, we begin a new worship series where we follow the Spirit of God who brings Rest to our Restless souls, restoring us for New Beginnings.

“Rest”. What do you feel when you think about that word?

CNA recently published an article describing Singaporeans as a “notoriously busy, overworked group” and it’s costing us dearly. Our minds, bodies, and bank accounts are suffering from a culture of relentless productivity, maximisation, and “never enough”. Without realising it, we bring that mindset into church, where God becomes yet another tool to get us what we want as efficiently as possible. And we get frustrated and angry when He doesn’t operate on our timelines.

But what if God doesn’t work that way? And what if God knows better?

How To Use The Midweek WhatsApp Broadcast

For the past few months, you may have noticed that we've been sharing a midweek message that recaps the sermon and ways we can live out God's Word during the week. We believe that we are Christians not only on Sunday, but also from Monday to Saturday - and we need all the help we can get!

Starting this week, we will also be including questions for your reflection and meditation. You can use these simple questions for your own devotional time, with your small group or careteam, or with your family.

We encourage you to draw closer to God and grow in faith by taking time during the week to return to and rest in God's Word!

For Your Safety: Bollards Installation

We believe in being a Compassionate church family that welcomes everyone into a place where you can "rest assured"! To improve our traffic safety on Sunday mornings, we will be installing bollards around the carpark. These will replace the current collapsible barriers.

We thank God for blessing us with members, leaders, and a Facility Stewardship (FAST) team who worked together to make this happen. Special thanks to Elder Pang Tee Liang and brother David Dass for installing the bollards this afternoon!
