Sunday Morning Worship

Rescued To Rest In Rhythm | 10 August 2025

For many of us, “rest” is what we enjoy after all the work is done. In other words, “rest” and “work” simply don’t overlap. In a culture that demands our 110% effort at work all the time, we’re tempted to accept our fate that rest is just a luxury we cannot enjoy.

Scripture, however, makes it clear: rest is not a mere luxury, but a holy and divine command for the people of God. It is not a call to abandon work, but to give work its proper place in our lives. Work is not our highest calling in life; it is but one part of a greater divine rhythm of work and rest.

We sometimes say that God created the world in seven days. While He technically created in six days and rested on the seventh, what if the seventh day rest is a part of the story of God, rather than separate from it?

How To Use The Midweek WhatsApp Broadcast

For the past few months, you may have noticed that we've been sharing a midweek message that recaps the sermon and ways we can live out God's Word during the week. We believe that we are Christians not only on Sunday, but also from Monday to Saturday - and we need all the help we can get!

Starting this week, we will also be including questions for your reflection and meditation. You can use these simple questions for your own devotional time, with your small group or careteam, or with your family.

We encourage you to draw closer to God and grow in faith by taking time during the week to return to and rest in God's Word!
